SAN PRANCISCO, August 15, 1877. AFTER THE STRIKE.

The country has settled down to quiet again. The mobs have disappeared, and the railroads are again running as usual. The causes of the strike are being discussed, and the future condition of the laboring man is the great problem of the day. One cause of all the trouble with the laboring masses of the world may be found in a fact stated in a Massachu-sette paper lately, namely, that one third more boots and shoes were manufactured in that State in 1876 than in 1860, and one third fewer men or women employed in their manufacture. Machinery is doing that which men and vomen formerly did and lives by doing. Machinery is cheaper than men; it does not require food and cothes; it never gets sick; in never strikes; not asks for holidays; it wears out. but does not die, so muchinery is preferred to human hands, and the formerly employed must go idle. What shall be done is the problem clergymen are preaching about, politicians are talving about, journalists are writing about, and workingmen are think-MINING STOCK REVELATIONS.

Everybody knows how in times past mining assessments have been paid in this city with a regularity that was astonishing. Men and women came to think that a refusal to pay an assessment was throw-ing away a fortune. A case has lately been brought to light which shows how the public confidence has been abused. In the case of the Ida Elimore Mine, whenever an assessment was levied the stock being-ing to the President and his friends was stamped The amounts paid in this way pretended to paid. The amounts paid in this way pretended to have been received went on the books as so much cash. The outside stockholders, seeing that all the big operators and trustees had promptly paid up, naturally enough brought their contributions. So the people would mortgage their homesteads to get the necessary funds. But all this time not a cent had been paid into the treasury by the management. As Sugar Plantation Stock Companies or being organized in your guideless community, I throw out the above hint, as contained in the management of the Ida Ellmore Mine, for the benefit of managers alone. A correspondent writing from Kapapaia says, we

While on the subject of sugar plantation stock let me ask why it wouldn't be a good idea to float that stock on California Street through a syndicate. Now that the bottom has failen out of our mines, Sand-wich Island sugar stock might be introduced as the latest sensation among the Balls and Bears. STAND PRON UNDER.

Some good folks here are expressing addiety at the natural feeling of excitement and mania on the sugar question in your community in anticipation of the paretten in your community in anticipation of the benefits of the treaty now in operation. They say history repeats itself. The year 1845 in England was one of wild railroad speculation. Everybody who could raise five pounds engaged in the struggle for railroad shares. The names and addresses of those who subscribed less than $19,000 each filled over 540 pages of one of the Parliamentary reports. Nearly £250,000,000 were subscribed in various sums from the largest to the least. The subscribers included all classes from the highest peers in the realm, to clerks, governesses, and domestic servants. Gambling became the national vice; railroads were multiplied beyond all poseibility of utility. The fever was followed by the nearth of the real persons of the lowed by the inevitable reaction and depression. In September, 1847, fifteen of the wealthiest firms in London failed. In October the banks began to sus pend. The rate of discount was raised to nine pe cent., and money was unattainable by any credit and on any terms outside the Bank of England. The country had put £161,000,000 in new railroad ente prises and £138,000,000 was required to comple them. It was not until the government intervened that there was any relief. This same state of affairs has been reproduced in this country in railroad building and management. I may also allude to the wild real estate speculations which this community and State went through in the years preceding the completion of the overland railroad. What hardships, disappointments and loss of fortunes followed. There was no realization of the hores and predictions. There was no realization of the hopes and predictions of the wise and prudent, nor of the ignorant and cunning. After the rocket went up the stick came down. All this sort of thing will go on repeating itself as long as human nature remains the same. SUGAR.

There has been a decline in the price of sugar in New York, which the Tribune states is due to overloaded markets, and predicts disaster to some firms. One house, says the Tribune, is carrying 25,006 hoge-heads, which, if sold at the present market rates, would be a loss of $800,000.

In this city the agents of the California Sugar Re-finery reduced prices to per pound all round on the 8th, and rates may be quoted as follows: Powdered 13je; crushed Cube and fine crushed 13c; extra granulated 12je; yellow C 10je; C D 10je; refined yellow 9je; Hiswaiian grocery grades 8c to 12je. The bark Mattie Macleny arrived at Astoria on the 8th inst., from Honolalu, with 837,000 lbs sugar. A DREADFUL TRAGEDY.

Many of your readers who were acquainted with Fred Hanks, as he was familiarily called formerly, a resident in Honolulu, will be pained to hear of the sad and tragle ending of one of his brothers by the name of L. C. Hanks. A quarrel arose one evening at the Palace Hotel between Hanks, who was Consul for Guatemala, and a man by the name of Kuranda. The next morning the quarrel was renewed, when Mr. Dailey-Kuranda's partner—insisted on an applogy from Hanks, and upon being refused, a fight enough in which H. Letter was the control of the contr apology from links, and upon being refused, a fight ensued, in which lanks was worsted. The follow-ing morning at 10 o'clock Hanks met Dailey on Montgomery street, and, before Dailey could defend himself, shot him in the breast. Dailey fell, and died in about an hour in Wakelee's drug store. Hanks was immediately arrested and taken to the police station. The next morning the public was startled by the statement that Hanks had shot him self in his cell and had followed his victim.

self in his cell and had followed his victim.

Some years ago 'hanks went t' Guatemala as the commercial agent of the firm of J. C. Merrill & Co., of this city, and succeeded so well in obtaining business that he was admitted to a partnership in the house, after two years residence in that country. He then came back to San Francisco and subsequently returned to Central America. After he became a partner in the firm, he made several loose transactions which resulted in a several loose transactions which resulted in a several loose transactions. tions which resulted in so great a loss to the house that the senior partner forced a dissolution of the partnership. In the meantime, however, Hanks had become so well acquainted with the Precident of Guatemala, whom he met at the eard table and carnival assemblies, that he obtained for himself by ap-pointment from the President the position of Consul General of Guatemala, resident at San Francisco. It is the gossip among those who are pretty well in-formed that a talented and fascinating actress had something to do with the quarrel between Hanks and
